Draw or paste a picture into each square.

Cut the rectangles out and paste them under the proper flap. They won't all fit, so choose the ones that address things you need to work on or think about. You can also write your own things.

Cut up the dotted line to make 2 flaps.

I keep playing even when my mom tells me to do something else.

I turn off my game when mom tells me to, even though I want to keep playing.

It's OK to do bad things because my friends are doing it.

I say unkind things because I'm mad.

I am careful to say things that please God, even when I'm angry.

I'm careful to do what's right, even if my friends aren't.

I pout when I am corrected.

I am thankful for being corrected because it is helping me to be a better person.

It's OK to be mean to my sibling because s/he deserved it.

My parents are too strict.

God gave me my parents and knew that their rules would be for my own good.

I understand that God does not want me to take revenge and leave that up to Him.

I listen to music, even if it has bad stuff in it my parents don't approve of.

I am careful to only listen to music that honors God.

If I can get away with it, it's OK.

I sow discord.

I sow peace.

I will honor God, even when no one sees me.
